

WOMEN in ASTRONOMY

4:30 PM, Thursday
May 21st, 2015

Brookhaven National Laboratory
Physics Department, Building 510A
Physics Large Seminar Room

Glenda Denicolo
Suffolk Community College

Women have played key roles in Astronomy since the ancient times nonetheless, if you ask the public to name some astronomers throughout history, they will most likely list men. In this talk, we will look into the rich history of contributions of women to astronomy. Dr. Denicolo has a degree in astronomy and physics from Cambridge University. A member of the AAPT and ASNY, she is committed to include her students in her research.

The lecture is free and open to the public. Visitors age 16 and over must bring a photo ID.
Sponsored by Brookhaven Women in Science.

